

Construction Project Management System

Business Process

The business process starts when a client requests a construction project. The project manager creates the project and assigns engineers and workers. Materials and equipment are allocated to the project. During construction, the project progress is updated, and payments are recorded. When all work is completed, the project is marked as completed and a final report is generated.